The International Society
for Condition Monitoring

The ISCM is a new international forum for individuals and organisations with an interest in condition monitoring.

Its purpose is to bring together an international community with the common aim of achieving excellence in the development and practice of condition monitoring and related diagnostic technologies.

The ISCM will achieve its aim through:

- Facilitating a worldwide network for interchange of knowledge
- Encouraging and supporting national and international seminars and conferences
- A high level online journal
- Providing input into the development of training, qualification and certification programmes
- Contributing to the development of international standards
- Encouraging and supporting publishing initiatives
- Liaison with other national and international bodies.

Governance

A management committee, elected by members at the ISCM Annual General Meeting, will be responsible for ensuring that the ISCM pursues its aims effectively. A report to members will be published annually. This will include information on the past year's activities as well as plans for the future. Members will be encouraged to contribute to the strategic direction of the Society.

Administration

This will be provided by the full-time secretariat of The British Institute of Non-Destructive Testing, which already has a substantial CM community within its membership as well as experience in organising CM conferences and producing CM publications. The ISCM will be financed through membership subscriptions. Annual accounts will be produced and presented to members.
