

NDT for metallic airframe components

20 April 2021

THIS IS NOW A VIRTUAL EVENT

Details of the virtual workshop

This virtual workshop is run by the BINDT Aerospace Committee in order to pull together the latest thinking regarding NDT of metallic airframe parts. It will consider NDT of parts manufactured by a number of different processes, such as friction stir welding, metallic bonding and/or additive manufacturing.

The aim is to define the challenges, such as understanding the needs for qualification and defect detection for difficult geometries, and present potential NDT solutions from academia and industry.

The virtual workshop will include a requirements capture session towards the end of the day.
